

ODEON dining sofa, designed by: Marco Dessí

The idea of sitting at a table on an upholstered bench has a long-standing tradition. A bench gives the person sitting on it the feeling that they have ample space to spread out, and is also the perfect solution for larger groups around a table: it is always possible to move closer to one another in comfort on a bench. The Odeon dining sofa takes its cue from all the fantastic properties exhibited by the Odeon sofa: outstanding comfort, the striking lines which add stability to the upholstery, independence that permits it to shine when positioned as a stand-alone piece. A more upright backrest and higher seating position makes it the perfect bench which will add new ergonomic quality to long hours spent around the table. A bench could not be more like a sofa than this.

ODEON bistro tables, designed by: Marco Dessí

A fresh interpretation of the classic bistro table shape. The ideal complement to sofas and armchairs, the Odeon tables are available in a choice of four different heights. The solid tabletops are available either with a leather covering, in black ash or in solid walnut. A solid-wood column with intricately milled grooves provides a central design element. Made from powder-coated metal or special steel, the weighty pedestal gives the table additional stability.
