

ANDES Armchair swivel, DESIGNER: Luca Nichetto (2022)

Shifting perspectives in the ANDES family: Luca Nichetto's inviting armchair now comes with a star-shaped swivel base, opening up a completely new side to its character.

ANDES is a particularly versatile collection. From variable sofa modules and a generously-proportioned armchair to an upholstered bed, a clear philosophy runs through the design and is reflected in the organically shaped cushions. A striking detail: the delicate, rounded-over metal feet, which draw inspiration from a spoon designed by Josef Hoffmann. Nichetto and Wittmann have effortlessly taken up the challenge of applying these design features to the new protagonist in the series: the ANDES swivel armchair rests atop a slimline and lightweight star-shaped base which is available in black or – for an additional touch of glamour – brass. The point at which the foot meets the floor is also a passing reference to Hoffmann. Incorporating a silky-smooth return mechanism, the swivel base makes this member of the ANDES stable a highly expressive piece that pulls off a delicate aesthetic balancing act between chicness and straightforwardness. The finishing variants are virtually limitless: contrasting tones and materials for the body and armrests, while the precision piping can be made to stand out in an accent colour. Pocket springs in the seat cushion create the unique level of comfort customarily associated with a genuine Wittmann. In summary: the ANDES swivel chair is a beautifully proportioned armchair made to the highest standards of handcraftsmanship. Its aesthetic versatility and unmistakable shape mean it is predestined for stardom on a vast range of stages. Besides standing out for its matchless functionality and durability, its appeal also rests in its timeless aesthetic – qualities that are prized in home and contract settings alike.
